

DAILY EXAMINER.

J. W. DOWNS, Editor and Proprietor
THURSDAY.....APRIL 9.

The arrangements are nearly completed, and the Galveston Times will shortly make its appearance. says the State Gazette of the 6th.

Houston is having the advantage of street preaching. It will take that and much more, to evangelize the Bayou City folks.

The mails between this point and Galveston are exceedingly irregular, from some cause or other. If a route agent or two would look after these things, it would not be a bad idea.

The advance pages of Gen. John. stone's book, which have been published, are exciting much remark, and no small amount of criticism. What we hear only excites a more intense desire to read the book.

The Age doesn't think a Hammond conversion sufficient for a transvestite city official. Oh! Colonel, we doubt if the Great Apostle would be equal to the task, even could he be induced to take stock, which we very much doubt.

Mrs. Mehan, of Houston, has a pair of spectacles that came over in the Mayflower. We suggest that she loan them for a season to our Age friend, Colonel Cook, who by the way, wouldn't find it pleasant standing before one of the Pilgrim Fathers who had an ugly way of enforcing his ideas with steel.

Colonel Gustave Cook announces that he is now sole proprietor of the Houston Age, and proposes to make it a good paper. He can do it, and he has our best wishes for his success. The people of Houston should support the Colonel as they have supported good papers in days that are past.

With reference to the late fatal duel at Bay St. Louis, the New Orleans Picayune says:

"It is not thought any action will be taken by the authorities in the premises, as the friends of Mr. Bonaventure express themselves satisfied that the affair was conducted in the most honorable and unexceptionable manner."

Unexceptionable; of course it was, but who will restore the lost life to the country, to his family and friends? who will wipe the tear from the eye of the mourner? and who will plead his cause before the court of Heaven? We trust the day of these sanguinary settlements is nearly over. How infinitely better it would have been had those "friends" who assisted at the murder, have put their heads together and forced an equitable settlement, without reference to double shot guns.

It now appears that the volcanic indications in the Bald Mountain region, North Carolina, are no novelty. A tradition has existed among the Cherokee Indians for ages, to the effect that strange noises and fearful tremblings were heard and felt in that neighborhood hundreds of years since. In the region forty miles west of Stone Mountain, and still in the great Appalachian chain, is a mountain, which has been subjected to periodical shakings, at intervals of two or three years, ever since the war of 1812, and for a long period of time before. After every convolution the whole appearance of the mountain has been wonderfully changed. These mountains, the culminating mass of the Alleghany range, were uplifted by forces which are still throbbing under their foundations, and shaking them to their summit, and which may at any time culminate in a terrible earthquake, or break forth into a volcano eruption as terrible as that which buried Pompeii out of sight for centuries beneath a mass of scoria, through which modern science has at last penetrated.

TEXAS KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS AT HOUSTON.—Last night the Grand Lodge of this Order organized, under direction of Deputy Supreme Chancellor, W. A. Shields. The following Grand Officers were elected to preside for the coming year:

A. Ewing, G. C.; S. P. Wright, V. G. P.; F. S. Burke, V. G. C.; Alt. S. Dyer, G. R. and C. S.; J. M. Tryon, G. B.; C. B. Gray G.; J. J. Barton, G. I. S.; John Walker, G. O. S. There was a full representation of P. C's from the various lodges in the jurisdiction. The Lodge then adjourned to 8:30 p.m. to day, the 10th.

INFLATION.

The fight in Congress over the proposed "inflation," or increase of paper money, is well sustained. The friends of the measure are strong and united, its opponents are equally determined not to yield. That the great shrinkage in the volume of our circulating medium has reduced it to a sum far too insignificant to carry on our immense commerce, no one will deny. Nevertheless, any well informed attentive observer deny that to this vast shrinkage is partly, nay, mainly due, the recent panic, which involved for a time, very seriously, the principal business of the country, and which at one time threatened a calamity, wide spread and disastrous, to a degree, much greater than either panic panic that had preceded it. The whole tendency and intention of the move, withdrawing the paper of the government from circulation, was in the direction of a resumption of specie payment. That failing, the deficit between our necessities and the actual amount of currency on hand became painfully evident. This deficit has not yet been supplied, and now whether the proposed "inflation" is the best and shortest way out of the difficulty; we leave to other, older and wiser heads than ours to determine. Of one thing we are quite certain however, and that is, the problem, to us, would be very simple, were the volume of specie backs in our pockets greatly increased.

Commodore Morgan, the great New Orleans and Texas monopolist, is at present visiting Houston.

We are under obligation to Dr. J. H. Willis of this city, for the following dispatch from Dallas, dated April 7:

The Medical Association met today. There is a very large attendance, seventy-five or one hundred delegates present. Business of much importance will come up. We have received a cordial reception here by all.

J. H. WILLIS,
District Court,

Yours truly,
W. A. FORT,
